Kimberly Bergey hails ABC

I have had the distinct privilege of working with ABC scholars, who took the enormous risk to leave their homes across the country and move to Andover in pursuit of a better education and future.

These young women have an exceptional work ethic and genuine love of learning, and thrive in Honors and AP level courses, immersed in critical thinking across the disciplines. They are enthusiastically engaged at AHS and the Andover community have certainly made a positive difference in so many of our lives already.

Thank you, A Better Chance of Andover!

Kimberly Bergey,
AHS Guidance Counselor

Leadership changes

Nancy Vogler is the new president of A Better Chance of Andover. A board member for three years and a former host parent, her professional career has been in pediatric nursing. She succeeds Mary Pritchard, who remains on the board’s Executive Committee as advisor.

Becoming treasurer is Norreen Marton, who is an accountant for a local company. She succeeds Arlene Hawkins, who continues on the board.

New board members are Sophia Alexander, a corporate HR manager and owner with her husband of a small business in Andover; Sue Bergmeier, who has a long career teaching physical therapy; Clive Bolton, owner of a local engineering company; Cheryl Todisco, health teacher in Andover elementary and middle schools; and Michael Todisco, Cheryl’s husband and a CPA with a career in public accounting.

New host parents for ABC students are Lynn & Bruce Hook (Lynn is also on the board), Mary Ellen Janeiro, Robin & Jim Buhrer.

ABC’s leaders and students are grateful to Chris Grant, Eileen Reilly and Pam Rosenberg, who retired from the board after long and valuable service to our program.

Looking for missing ABC of Andover alumni

As we begin to plan for the 50th anniversary of A Better Chance of Andover, we want to regain contact with any of our graduates with whom we have lost touch. If you know of ABC alumni who do not receive postal or e-mail from us, please let us know at info@AndoverABC.org to help us reach them.

College preparation is a team task at ABC

The mission of A Better Chance of Andover – to help close the education gap for students of color – depends on many volunteers assisting these students through the complicated process of getting into colleges that best ensure their success.

Our nonprofit program’s invigorated focus on college admissions involves a many-pronged approach that employs experienced tutors, SAT prep, college essay development, financial aid know-how, visits to colleges, and a creative use of mentors.

The College Mentor: Each of the three seniors – Jazzare May, Deanna Starr and Abigail Awoadele – has been paired up since last spring with a mentor who is experienced in college preparation. Each mentor works closely with her scholar, the scholar’s AHS counselor and family, and ABC’s two resident directors during this high-stakes and high-stress process.

In addition, college-admissions coach Julie Ireland Childs of locally based USA College Bound has provided technical expertise to all the students.

College Visits: ABC arranges college tours ranging from one-day to weeklong so that the students can explore a range of institutions before creating their short wish-list. Without ABC’s help, the students probably couldn’t take these valuable tours, which are commonplace for most high school students, because their families have limited resources.

SAT Prep: Because of the ABC students’ previous environment and their crowded schedules in Andover, preparing them well for the crucial SAT testing is very important.

According to Sue Bergmeier, who chairs ABC’s Academic Committee and is an ABC host parent, finding the right programmatic fit for improving scores is key.

Tutors: Experienced coaches in the more standardized tests to prepare for – all while our scholars maintain a rigorous academic load at Andover High School, extracurricular activities, volunteer work and sports. Somehow, our seniors are juggling all of these commitments, while serving as great role models for our underclassmen.

This year, I’ve also had the pleasure of welcoming our two freshmen to our program. They made it through our national organization’s applicant screening for the brightest, most motivated students of color.

As our freshmen begin their high school careers, I reflect back three years to when our current seniors arrived at A Better Chance of Andover and marvel at how they have grown. They will leave us next spring as accomplished, confident young women, fully prepared to embark on the next stage of their academic careers.

I am proud of the academic success of all of our scholars, and grateful for the continued support of our volunteers and donors, who have enabled our nonprofit program to meet its mission since 1967.

Stayed tuned for our next newsletter to find out which colleges our seniors will attend in the fall.

Nancy Vogler
President's message: Amazing growth in four years

You probably have gone through the college process yourself or have helped your children navigate the process. It’s pretty intense, right? Now imagine a house with three seniors applying for college. Well, that’s the ABC House this fall!

Since August I’ve watched a team of dedicated volunteers guide our scholars through the complex college-preparation process. There are application-essays to polish, college visits to arrange and standardized tests to prepare for – all while our scholars maintain a rigorous academic load at Andover High School, extracurricular activities, volunteer work and sports. Somehow, our seniors are juggling all of these commitments, while serving as great role models for our underclassmen.

This year, I’ve also had the pleasure of welcoming our two freshmen to our program. They made it through our national organization’s applicant screening for the brightest, most motivated students of color.

As our freshmen begin their high school careers, I reflect back three years to when our current seniors arrived at A Better Chance of Andover and marvel at how they have grown. They will leave us next spring as accomplished, confident young women, fully prepared to embark on the next stage of their academic careers.

I am proud of the academic success of all of our scholars, and grateful for the continued support of our volunteers and donors, who have enabled our nonprofit program to meet its mission since 1967.

Stayed tuned for our next newsletter to find out which colleges our seniors will attend in the fall.

Nancy Vogler
President
ABC helped its students line up many opportunities to broaden their knowledge and leadership during the past summer.

Abigail Awodele, a senior, helped run A Better Chance East Coast Orientation 2013 at Arcadia University as a group leader of 250 students. Her duties included dorm proctor, travel chaperone, panelist, instructor, role model and mentor. She also attended the SAT Crash Course 2013 put on by ABC National in New York City.

Jazzare Mays, senior, became a certified College Access Ambassador through the highly selective NYU CALI (College Access Leadership Institute) held at NYU. Along with other academically strong students from communities that have few students in college, she attended workshops on skills that help gain admission to highly selective colleges.

Deanna Starr, senior, traveled to Mexico City and surrounding areas through Experiment in International Living (EIL). In addition to studying the history and culture of the city, Deanna lived with a family, improved her Spanish and honed her soccer skills with local kids. She also attended the At the Well Leadership Conference for women held at Princeton University.

Ariel Leachman, a junior, explored fashion design and merchandising at the Fashion Institute of Technology’s Precollege Program. She attended a summer reading-and-writing program at Fordham University’s School of Inernational Living (EIL). In addition to studying the history and culture of the city, Deanna lived with a family, improved her Spanish and honed her soccer skills with local kids. She also attended the At the Well Leadership Conference for women held at Princeton University.

Fatouma Koné, junior, attended the two-week summer program is for high school students of color with leadership and academic potential.

Attending thanks to a scholarship and sponsorship, she was assigned the duty of dorm advisor in addition to the program’s main activities. At a closing ceremony, she received the Oprah Winfrey Award for Demonstrated Leadership.

“I learned a lot,” she says of the annual program, which encourages critical thinking and problem solving in its classes and discussion groups. “It brought together a lot of cool people from all over the country.”

Financial Aid Team: ABC has put together a team of financial aid gurus to assist seniors with the many important student aid forms that come due Jan. 1 and the overall issue of college cost.

The two newest arrivals at ABC – 9th-graders A’mari Bing-Way and Nilda Vega – have similar interests in music and are excited about the experiences that await them here.

A’mari Bing-Way is very creative and loves every form of art, from food creation to architecture. She has joined the ABC chorus and is taking violin lessons and is getting involved at the Essex Art Center in Lawrence.

At her middle school in Waldord, MD, she was on the girls 4x100 track team that won first place.

One of her initial reactions to Andover was that “kids are very laid back...and even wear sweatshirts to school!”

A’mari’s host family is Mary Ellen Janeiro and Dan Hall.

Nilda has joined the AHS Treble Choir of New England. She also is volunteering at Neve Horizons for Youth.

At her middle school in New Haven, CT, she founded the school’s Student Council and discovered that it helped her push past her fear of public speaking.

Nilda’s host family is Jim and Robin Buhrer and children.

She is excited about her new homebase, saying that “the ABC house is amazing!”

The College Essay prep (cont’d. from page 1)

college prep (cont’d. from page 1)

difficult AHS courses are available to help ABC students to master challenging parts of their courses in order to build an unblemished academic record. Tuturors also meet with incoming ABC 9th-graders to prepare them for AHS-level teaching, which is far more demanding than that of their previous under-performing schools.

The College Essay: A college essay based on the ABC student’s unusual experiences can set her apart from her peers at Andover High School. It gives the students an opportunity to land much-needed scholarships, notes Bergmeyer.

This fall the seniors worked closely with their college mentors to develop essays, explains Gaby Hagar Nossiff, Academic Committee member. “From the difference their first draft to their final essay is enormous,” she says, noting that the essay process also becomes a vehicle for self-reflection and revelation, as scholars look back on their ABC journey.

“Tey stories go untold while they are here,” she explains. “Tey are facts to these girls that we never see. Tey stay on AHS and put on their game faces to succeed. Tis [essay-writing] process can be an emotional one.”

Financial Aid Team: ABC has put together a team of financial aid gurus to assist seniors with the many important student-aid forms that come due Jan. 1 and the overall issue of college cost.

ABC Board Members
Nancy Vogl, President
Sussan Connolly, Vice President
Noreen Martin, Treasurer
Cynthia Mains, Secretary
Mary Pritchard, Advisor

Sophia Alexander
Sue Bergmeyer
Clive Bolton
Matt Connors
Diane Costaglolla
Donna Crawfie
Kristin Estenberg
Dan Hall
Arlene Hawkins
Lynn Hook
Amy Ingal
Nancy Kendich
Kate Margolison
Dit McCaey
Mary Beth Nelson
Toby Cohn O’Neary
Lori Peterson
Cheryl Todisco
Michael Todisco

Resident Director
Deanne & Chris Caraviello
Cassie McGovern
Resident Assistants
Cassadee Louis
Kristina Martin
Jessica Quinones

Scholar’s Hosts
Robin & Jim Buhrer
Tomara & Carlo Cadet
Carol & Bruce Canevel
Kristin Estenberg &
Sue Bergmeyer
Lynn Hook & Bruce Hook
Mary Ellen Janiero
Gaby & John Nossiff
Julie & Arnie Premitt

More news/photos at AndoverABC.org

ABC gives students tutorial and SAT-exam help.

Summer offered learning, leadership

Nilda Vega and A’mari Bing-Way, both 9th grade, began their ABC journey in August, attending an ABC math “ramp” program that helps prepare incoming ABC students for one of the more difficult courses at AHS.

Andover ABC students bring awards home

Two ABC students from Andover have received awards for excellence in areas that are ABC hallmarks: leadership and persistence against all odds.

Felicia Reyes, who graduated in last spring, was chosen by the ABC, national organization, from among graduating ABC seniors nationwide for “exceptional and steadfast determination to achieve successes through perseverance toward objectives in spite of obstacles that may have impeded his or her progress.” The other award went to Fatouma Koné, a junior this year at Andover High, for leadership qualities she showed during a training program at Princeton University.

Fatouma gave an acceptance speech when she received her award at National ABC’s 50th Anniversary Gala in New York City.

“Tey was amazing in her grace and poise as she accepted the award,” Mary Pritchard said. “She brings great strength at moments when she knows she is out of her comfort zone...showing all of us the courage that she possesses no matter what life asks of her.

Now a freshman at her dream school, the University of Southern California, with a full scholarship, she said she wants to be seen as “a walking example of how there is hope.”

“If it weren’t for A Better Chance,” she said, “I would not be where I am today.”

Fatouma Koné was honored with the Oprah Winfrey Award at the highly selective American Women Young Leaders’ Leadership Academy at Princeton. The two-week summer program is for high school seniors of color with leadership and academic potential.

Attending thanks to a scholarship and sponsorship, she was assigned the duty of dorm advisor in addition to the program’s main activities. At a closing ceremony, she received the Oprah Winfrey Award for Demonstrated Leadership.

“I learned a lot,” she says of the annual program, which encourages critical thinking and problem solving in its classes and discussion groups. “It brought together a lot of cool people from all over the country.”

Financial Aid Team: ABC has put together a team of financial aid gurus to assist seniors with the many important student-aid forms that come due Jan. 1 and the overall issue of college cost.

The two newest arrivals at ABC – 9th-graders A’mari Bing-Way and Nilda Vega – have similar interests in music and are excited about the experiences that await them here.

A’mari Bing-Way is very creative and loves every form of art, from food creation to architecture. She has joined the ABC chorus and is taking violin lessons and is getting involved at the Essex Art Center in Lawrence.

At her middle school in Waldord, MD, she was on the girls 4x100 track team that won first place.

One of her initial reactions to Andover was that “kids are very laid back...and even wear sweatshirts to school!”

A’mari’s host family is Mary Ellen Janeiro and Dan Hall.

Nilda has joined the AHS Treble Choir of New England. She also is volunteering at Neve Horizons for Youth.

At her middle school in New Haven, CT, she founded the school’s Student Council and discovered that it helped her push past her fear of public speaking.

Nilda’s host family is Jim and Robin Buhrer and children.

She is excited about her new homebase, saying that “the ABC house is amazing!”

Alumni graduate

Two ABC students from the ABC class of 2009 received college degree last spring.

Turallory Jackson graduated from Villanova University. Her application to the Teach for America program was accepted and she is teaching in the Baltimore area.

Alex Pritchard was awarded a degree in public health by Thas College. Currently she is Spain with a short-term teaching job, she plans to return to the U.S. in the spring.

ABC Open House

Come and meet our students and leaders at an open house on Sunday, Dec. 8.

Tour ABC House at 134 Main St. Andover, during the 1-3 pm event and enjoy seasonal refreshments.

For Patriots fans, the game will be on the house TV.

Items Needed

Our nonprofit program needs many new or used household items and supplies. We can offer a pickup service, you can deliver, or you can drop them off directly. Please call us if you are interested.

Any of the following, please contact us if you have any questions. We appreciate your support.

Financial Aid Team: ABC has put together a team of financial aid gurus to assist seniors with the many important student-aid forms that come due Jan. 1 and the overall issue of college cost.

Financial Aid Team: ABC has put together a team of financial aid gurus to assist seniors with the many important student-aid forms that come due Jan. 1 and the overall issue of college cost.

The two newest arrivals at ABC – 9th-graders A’mari Bing-Way and Nilda Vega – have similar interests in music and are excited about the experiences that await them here.

A’mari Bing-Way is very creative and loves every form of art, from food creation to architecture. She has joined the ABC chorus and is taking violin lessons and is getting involved at the Essex Art Center in Lawrence.

At her middle school in Waldord, MD, she was on the girls 4x100 track team that won first place.

One of her initial reactions to Andover was that “kids are very laid back...and even wear sweatshirts to school!”

A’mari’s host family is Mary Ellen Janeiro and Dan Hall.

Nilda has joined the AHS Treble Choir of New England. She also is volunteering at Neve Horizons for Youth.

At her middle school in New Haven, CT, she founded the school’s Student Council and discovered that it helped her push past her fear of public speaking.

Nilda’s host family is Jim and Robin Buhrer and children.

She is excited about her new homebase, saying that “the ABC house is amazing!”

More about A Better Chance of Andover

The site contains the latest news, information and photos of the ABC students, our nonprofit’s mission, past newsletters, how to volunteer or contact us, and more.
Summer offered learning, leadership

ABC helped its students line up many opportunities to broaden their knowledge and leadership during the past summer.

Abigail Awodele, a senior, helped run A Better Chance East Coast Orientation 2013 at Arcadia University as a group leader of 250 students. Her duties included dorm proctor, travel chaperone, panelist, instructor, role model and mentor. She also attended the SAT Crash Course 2013 put on by ABC National in New York City.

Jazzare Mays, senior, became a certified College Access Ambassador through the highly selective NYU CALI (College Access Leadership Institute) held at NYU. Along with other academically strong students from communities that have few students in college, she attended workshops on skills that help gain admission to highly selective colleges.

Deanna Starr, senior, traveled to Mexico City and surrounding areas through Experiment in International Living (EII). In addition to studying the history and culture of the city, Deanna lived with a local family, improved her Spanish and honed her soccer skills with local kids. She also attended the At the Well Leadership Conference for women held at Princeton University.

Ariel Leachman, a junior, explored fashion design, creative writing and modern dance at the Fashion Institute of Technology's Precollege Program. She attended a summer reading and writing program at Fordham University’s School of Professional and Continuing Studies. Capping her summer was the SAT Crash Course 2013 put on by ABC National.

Fatoumata Koné, junior, attended the highly competitive Chance East Coast Orientation 2013 at Arcadia University, where she was assigned the duty of dorm advisor in addition to the program’s main activities. At a closing ceremony, she received the Oprah Winfrey Award for demonstrated leadership.

"I learned a lot," she says of the annual program, which encourages critical thinking and problem solving in its classes and discussion groups. “It brought together a lot of cool people from all over the country.”

College prep (cont'd from page 1)

Difficult AHS courses are available to help ABC students master challenging parts of their courses in order to build an unlumbered academic record. Tutor also meets with incoming ABC 9th-graders to prepare them for AHS-level teaching, which is far more demanding than that of their previous under-performing schools.

The College Essay: A college essay based on the student’s unusual experiences can set her apart from her peers at Andover High School. It gives the students an opportunity to land much-needed scholarship awards.

This fall the seniors worked closely with their college mentors to develop essays, explains Gaby Haugan Nossli, Academic Committee member. “The difference from their first draft to their final essay is enormous,” she says, noting that the essay process also becomes a vehicle for self-reflection and revelation, as scholars look back on their ABC journey.

“Their stories go untold while they are here,” she explains. “There are facets to girls that we never see. They are more than Andover and put on their game-face to succeed.” This (essay-writing) process can be an emotional one.

Financial Aid Team: ABC has put together a team of financial aid gurus to assist seniors with the many important student-aid forms that come due Jan. 1 and the overall issue of college cost.
Kimberly Bergey hails ABC

I have had the distinct privilege of working with ABC scholars, who took the enormous risk to leave their homes across the country and move to Andover in pursuit of a better education and future.

These young women have an exceptional work ethic and genuine love of learning, and thrive in Honors and AP level courses, immersed in critical thinking across the disciplines. They are enthusiastically engaged at AHS, and also the community, in athletics, music, theatre, clubs, and community service.

ABC scholars graduate ready to be active leaders in college and eager to make a positive difference in our world. With unique ideas and talents to share, their contributions to AHS and the Andover community have certainly made a positive difference in so many of our lives already.

Thank you, A Better Chance of Andover!

Kimberly Bergey, AHS Guidance Counselor

Leadership changes

Nancy Vogler is the new president of A Better Chance of Andover. A board member for three years and a former host parent, her professional career has been in pediatric nursing. She succeeds Mary Pritchard, who remains on the board's Executive Committee as advisor.

Becoming treasurer is Noreen Marton, who is an accountant for a local company. She succeeds Arlene Hawkins, who continues on the board.

New board members are Sophia Alexander, a corporate HR manager and owner with her husband of a small business in Andover; Sue Bergmeier, who has a long career teaching physical therapy; Clive Bolton, owner of a local engineering company; Cheryl Todisco, health teacher in Andover elementary and middle schools; and Michael Todisco, Cheryl’s husband and a CPA with a career in public accounting.

New host parents for ABC students are Lynn & Bruce Hook (Lynn is also on the board), Mary Ellen Janeiro, Robin & Jim Buhrer.

ABC’s leaders and students are grateful to Chris Grant, Eileen Reilly and Pam Rosenberg, who retired from the board after long and valuable service to our program.

Looking for missing ABC of Andover alumni

As we begin to plan for the 50th anniversary of A Better Chance of Andover, we want to regain contact with any of our graduates with whom we have lost touch. If you know of ABC alumni who do not receive postal or e-mail from us, please let us know at info@AndoverABC.org how to reach them.

College preparation is a team task at ABC

The mission of A Better Chance of Andover – to help close the education gap for students of color – depends on many volunteers assisting these students through the complicated process of getting into colleges that best ensure their success.

Our nonprofit program’s invigorated focus on college admissions involves a many-pronged approach that employs experienced mentors, SAT prep, college essay development, financial aid know-how, visits to colleges, and a creative use of tutors.

The College Mentor: Each of the three seniors – Jazzare May, Deanna Starr and Abigail Awodele – has been paired up since last spring with a mentor who is experienced in college preparation. Each mentor works closely with her scholar, the scholar’s AHS counselor and family, and ABC’s two resident directors during this high-stakes and high-stress process.

In addition, college-admissions coach Julie Ireland Childs of locally based USA College Bound has provided technical expertise to all the students.

College Visits: ABC arranges college tours ranging from one-day to weeklong so that the students can explore a range of institutions before creating their short wish-list. Without ABC’s help, the students probably couldn’t take these valuable tours, which are commonplace for most high school students, because their families have limited resources.

SAT Prep: Because of the ABC students’ previous environment and their crowded schedules in Andover, preparing them well for the crucial SAT testing is very important.

According to Sue Bergmeier, who chairs ABC’s Academic Committee and is an ABC host parent, finding the right programmatic fit for improving scores is key.

President’s message: Amazing growth in four years

You probably have gone through the college process yourself or have helped your children navigate the process. It’s pretty intense, right? Now imagine a house with three seniors applying for college. Well, that’s the ABC House this fall!

Since August I’ve watched a team of dedicated volunteers guide our scholars through the complex college-preparation process. There are application-essays to polish, college visits to arrange and standardized tests to prepare for – all while our scholars maintain a rigorous academic load at Andover High School, extracurricular activities, volunteer work and sports. Somehow, our seniors are juggling all of these commitments, while serving as great role models for our underclassmen.

This year, I’ve also had the pleasure of welcoming our two freshmen to our program. They made it through our national organization’s applicant screening for the brightest, most motivated students of color.

As our freshmen begin their high school careers, I reflect back three years to when our current seniors arrived at A Better Chance of Andover and marvel at how they have grown. They will leave us next spring as accomplished, confident young women, fully prepared to embark on the next stage of their academic careers.

I am proud of the academic success of all of our scholars, and grateful for the continued support of our volunteers and donors, who have enabled our nonprofit program to meet its mission since 1967.

Stayed tuned for our next newsletter to find out which colleges our seniors will attend in the fall.

Nancy Vogler